

Contents

- 1 Introduction: The changing nature of democracy 1
Takashi Inoguchi, Edward Newman, and John Keane
- Definitions and criteria 21
- 2 Some basic assumptions about the consolidation of democracy 23
Philippe C. Schmitter
- 3 Fifty years after the “Great Transformation”: Reflections on social order and political agency 37
Claus Offe
- 4 Toward consolidated democracies 48
Juan J. Linz and Alfred Stepan
- Democracy and social framework 69
- 5 Democracy and constitutionalism 71
Jean Blondel
- 6 Mass media and participatory democracy 87
Elihu Katz

7	Party representation in the United Kingdom, Australia, and Japan	101
	J.A.A. Stockwin
	Democracy and global forces	117
8	The democratization process and the market	119
	Mihály Simai
9	Political representation and economic competitiveness: Is a new democratic synthesis conceivable?	136
	Ian Marsh
10	A structure for peace: A democratic, interdependent, and institutionalized order	157
	Bruce Russett
	Regional characteristics of democracy	171
11	Asian-style democracy?	173
	Takashi Inoguchi
12	Post-communist Europe: Comparative reflections	184
	Alfred Stepan and Juan J. Linz
13	Religion and democracy: The case of Islam, civil society, and democracy	213
	Saad Eddin Ibrahim
	Invigorating democratic ideas and institutions	229
14	The Philadelphia model	231
	John Keane
15	Democracy at the United Nations	244
	Daniele Archibugi

16	A meditation on democracy	255
	Bernard Crick
	Contributors	266
	Index	270

สำหรับการศึกษาระดับปริญญาโทและปริญญาเอก
For educational use and reference only