

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Foreword	xi
Acknowledgements	xiii
Introduction.....	1
I Subject and Terminology.....	1
II Method.....	6
III Scope.....	11
IV Purpose.....	14
PART I THE EUROPEAN CONVENTION AND ITS PUBLIC WATCHDOG
Introduction.....	21
Chapter 1 Article 10 and the Press	25
1.1 A Synopsis of the Substantial Guarantee of Article 10.....	25
1.1.1 The Restriction Clause.....	28
1.1.2 Duties and Responsibilities.....	33
1.1.3 Article 10 in Relation to Other Convention Provisions.....	35
1.2 A Comparison with Other Instruments.....	40
1.3 The Enforcement Mechanisms.....	47
1.3.1 The Admissibility Process.....	50
1.4 Interpreting the Convention.....	54
1.4.1 Teleological Interpretation of Object and Purpose.....	55
1.4.2 Evolutive Interpretation in Light of Privatization and State Obligation.....	58
1.4.3 The Principle of Proportionality.....	67
1.4.4 The Margin of Appreciation.....	68
1.4.5 The Effectiveness Principle.....	77
1.5 Conclusion: Sublime Aims.....	79
Chapter 2 The Democratic Right to Receive	83
2.1 Towards Protecting the Public Interest.....	83
2.1.1 Evoking Media Responsibility.....	87
2.1.2 The Origin of the Right to Receive.....	89
2.2 An Effective Political Democracy.....	95
2.2.1 Article 3 Protocol 1: Majority Rule and Free Discussion.....	96
2.2.2 An Informed Public: A Democratic Entitlement?.....	101
2.2.3 Tolerance, Pluralism and Broadmindedness.....	104
2.3 The State's Role in Fostering Public Awareness.....	107
2.3.1 Information Acts and Transparency.....	114
2.3.2 Regulation of Broadcasting and Democratic Values.....	117
2.4. Broadcasting under the Convention.....	118
2.4.1 Public Service Broadcasting.....	121
2.4.2 Access to Broadcasting.....	127

JOURNALISM WORTHY OF THE NAME

2.4.3 The Divergent Legal Treatment of Broadcasting and Print Media.....	132
2.5 The New Information Technologies and Democracy.....	137
2.5.1 Economic Disparities and the Right to Receive.....	140
2.5.2. Lex Internet	143
2.6 Conclusion: Social Cohesion and a Coherent Legal Framework?.....	146

Chapter 3 Opinion, Journalism and Dignity.....	151
3.1 Freedom of Opinion: A Contested Notion.....	152
3.2 Journalism and Public Opinion.....	156
3.2.1 The Right not to be Mislead.....	159
3.2.2 The Duty to Form an Opinion and Express it without Reserve.....	165
3.3 Dignity and Self-Realization.....	173
3.3.1 Hate-Speech: Defamation and Discrimination.....	176
3.3.2 Prohibition in Public International Law.....	179
3.3.3 Holocaust Denial.....	183
3.3.4 The Chilling Effect: Jersild v. Denmark	184
3.4 The Silencing Effect of Discriminatory Journalism.....	186
3.4.1 Sexism in Journalism.....	193
3.5 Children: Protection against Exploitation.....	194
3.6 Conclusion: A Media Practicing (In)Equality?.....	199

Chapter 4 The Vital Role of Imparting.....	205
4.1 An Organized Business Called the Press.....	205
4.1.1 The Nature of the Modern Press.....	211
4.1.2 Enhanced Expectations and Conflict of Interests.....	215
4.2 The Fiduciary Duty.....	220
4.2.1 The Public Watchdog.....	226
4.2.2 Investigative Journalism.....	229
4.3 Safeguards.....	234
4.3.1 The Question of Extra Legal Protection.....	237
4.3.2 Access to Information.....	238
4.3.3 Protection of Confidentiality of Sources.....	248
4.3.4 Authors' Rights.....	254
4.4 Whistleblowers and Dissidents' Status.....	257
4.5 Conclusion: Empty, Rhetorical Testimonials?.....	270

PART II FREEDOM WITHIN THE MEDIA: THE DILEMMA OF AN 'IRON CAGE'
Introduction.....	277

Chapter 5 Self-Censorship in Journalism.....	279
5.1 Declining Standards.....	279
5.1.1 Integration of Journalism into Business Enterprises.....	282
5.2 Self-censorship: Not a Legal Wrong?.....	285
5.2.1 Case of Hewitt and Harman v. the United Kingdom	294

JOURNALISM WORTHY OF THE NAME

5.2.2 Fighting Fear and Timidity	297
5.2.3 The Requisite to Conform to Get the Job	303
5.2.4 Defencelessness in the Workplace.....	310
5.3 Professional Regulation of Journalism	313
5.3.1 Market-Regulation of Journalism	317
5.3.2 The Inter-American Court of Human Rights' Opinion on the Dilemma..	319
5.4 Legitimizing the Status of Journalism under the Convention.....	323
5.4.1 Legal Trends towards Professional Responsibility	333
5.5 Recommendation: Journalism as an Authorized Profession.....	336
Chapter 6 The Proprietor's Position	343
6.1 Internal Pressures must be Guarded against	344
6.1.1 Is Freedom within the Press a Political Price?.....	349
6.1.2 The Proprietor's Position vis-à-vis the Public (Wablv, Austria).....	353
6.2 Entrepreneurial Objectives under Article 10	357
6.2.1 Liability Implicating Owners.....	359
6.2.2 Economic Concerns of Owners	361
6.2.3 Wealth and Freedom of Expression?.....	367
6.2.4 Does Motive Justify Tendency Protection?.....	374
6.3 The Question of Co-Determination within the Media	378
6.4 Use of Private Property to Promote Public Debate.....	382
6.4.1 Duties Imposed on Owners.....	382
6.4.2. The Key Position of Publishers	385
6.4.3 The Right of States to Control the Use of Property	389
6.5 Recommendation: Subsidies in Sequence to Legislation	391
Chapter 7 The Political Nature of Advertising	397
7.1 Identification of Commercial Speech	398
7.1.1 The Role of Advertising	402
7.1.2 The Chilling Effect of Advertisers.....	406
7.2 The Convention on Transfrontier Television.....	410
7.2.1 Advertising under the ECTT	415
7.2.2 Subliminal and Surteptious Advertising.....	417
7.2.3 Indirect Economic Pressure	419
7.2.4 Editorial Responsibility	421
7.3 Contending Values and Convention Case-Law	423
7.3.1 Competition or Journalism?.....	428
7.3.2 The Political Nature of Advertising: A New Departure?.....	432
7.4 US Approach to Corporate Speech.....	437
7.5 Recommendation: Prohibition of Editorial Advertising	440

JOURNALISM WORTHY OF THE NAME

Chapter 8 Self-Regulation Contested	447
8.1 The Regulatory Environment of Journalism.....	449
8.2 The Objectives of Self-Regulation.....	457
8.3 The Means of Self-Regulation.....	461
8.3.1 Codes of Conduct.....	461
8.3.2 Press Councils.....	463
8.3.3 Sanctions.....	466
8.4 Compatibility of Self-Regulation with Article 10.....	467
8.4.1 Self-Regulation in Promoting the Public Interest.....	471
8.5 Available Remedies to Journalists.....	476
8.5.1 Conscience and Conduct.....	476
8.5.2 Clause of Conscience.....	478
8.5.3 Claiming a Right.....	481
8.5.4 Drittwirkung	485
8.6 Recommendation: ‘There-Ought-to-Be-a-Law’.....	489
PART III JOURNALISM WORTHY OF THE NAME
Introduction.....	495
Chapter 9 Affirmative Action on the Basis of Article 10	497
9.1 There is an Obligation and it can be Breached.....	497
9.2 Why the State?.....	502
9.3 The Symbiosis of the Rights of Others and Democracy.....	507
9.4 Affirmative Action to Resist the Decline in Press Freedom.....	512
9.5 Conclusion: Law Liberates.....	516
Table of Cases	523
Table of Legislation	533
Bibliography	537
Index	555